

I am against any regulation restricting how people choose to access the internet. This is the same principle as for media outlets. Monopoly does not belong anywhere and particularly in communication.